33	Live three miles from work- but my husband feels I am unsafe. I have made the trip by bike and have walked. The trip is through neighborhoods, across a stream, and through a business park. If there were paths where others were commuting, I would love the free exercise for the days I could make it. We have a shower at work, and a somewhat active workforce. With these things in mind, many of us who are active would be happy to promote health at work. Without safe passage, no business would risk promoting bike week.
